

For information on these designs visit: ballarddesigns.com

package of your home this season. ■
 “ribbon curl” on the gift-wrapped small, but important, detail is the your doors and windows clean. This entrance free of clutter and the glass in Finally, make sure to keep your front reflect the warmth of your home.

You can never go wrong with natural materials such as fiber or a rope mat to your interior theme.
 something that complements your out- door presentation while staying true to new door, freshly painted and decorated, For example, don't pair a brand up your entryway, make sure to spruce If you invest time and money to spruce imagination soar this season.

FINAL THOUGHTS

 outdoors. The sky is the limit, so let your Recycle your summer terra cotta pots for of the door to keep it symmetrical. If space allows, place one on either side (real or artificial) beside your front door. You can decorate a miniature pine tree perfect doorknocker.

seasonal-colored ribbon work as a plant to use for this. Bells hung from also a nice touch. Holly is an optional the doorway, with or without lights, is your family. Garland wrapped around or anything that reflects the holidays for For winter, you can attach small its accessories throughout each season. the door all year, as long as you swap out usually coordinate with your match your doorknobs and interior hardware. Think of it as wearing sneakers with a suit. Although the footwear functions, it just does not go and draws attention to the wrong place.

matching sidelights. Expand a front door with only one looked. Rather than purchase design piece often over- Symmetry is an important match your doorknobs and interior hardware. Think of it as wearing sneakers with a suit. Although the footwear functions, it just does not go and draws attention to the wrong place.

Blue door of Salem. Photo by James P. Walsh II

ACCESSORIES

To highlight your front door and make it “pop” all year long, you can add plants, wreaths and other seasonal items to bookends for your front door.

The same can be said for your hardware. Your hinges, whether brass, rubbed To highlight your front door and make it “pop” all year long, you can add plants, wreaths and other seasonal items to bookends for your front door.

CONSISTENCY AND SYMMETRY

entire entrance.
 and doorknocker can remake an a fresh coat of paint, a new handle just want to spruce them up, then you are happy with your doors but transom and sidelight options. If with a combination of glass panes, All three door styles come solid or which only allows for painting. rating. They provide a smooth finish, safest, as far as security and fire lowest maintenance and arguably the Steel doors are the least expensive,

Photo courtesy of Ballard Design

